SAVE THE PARTY.

If Mr. Glass "jumps on the record" of Mr. Claytor as he did at Charlotte Courthouse, and Mr. Lawless "goes there will be volcanic disturbances in the Democratic circles of the Sixth and Second Districts. It would be right hard for a Republican to pick more flaws in records than these brother Democrats are doing, and this mana feature of the National fight for 1904. It may develop that the primary is medicine to this undesirable condition of party affairs, and if so the authorities ought to apply the remedy at earliest possible moment. We do not just understand the necessity of this dirty-linen-washingprocess in presence of the public, and would respectfully urge its prempt disontinuance. We have been informed by more than one of those who witnessed the Claytor Glass tilt at Charlotte, that the former led off with an to them seemed unnecessary and out of harmony with the occasion, but havbeen attacked there was nothing left to the latter but to strike back, and they do say, that this "breath of fresh air politics," became at once a violent hurricane, dealing death and destruction in its entire sweep. Of course the crowd enjoyed it, and yelled to the point of hoarseness, but while the hurrah was at its height, Democracy was receiving serious hurt.

And when Mr. Lawless is going through the second District, with the avowed purpose of "going through the record of Mr. Maynard, he, too, is engaged in work which can mean no good to the Democracy of that district. These gentlemen have the unquestioned it possible, but they have no right to create family discussion to gain a personal record of the season and is employed on net, mousseline, chilfon and create family discussion to gain a personal record of the season and is employed on net, mousseline, chilfon and create family discussion to gain a personal record of the season and is employed on net, mousseline, chilfon and create family discussion to gain a personal record of the season and is employed on net, mousseline, chilfon and create family discussion to gain a personal record of the season and is employed on net, mousseline, chilfon and create family discussion to gain a personal record of the season and is employed on net, mousseline, chilfon and create family discussion to gain a per sonal victory. Here is a field big and pet of roads? Here is a field big and troad and which ought to be inviting.

Mr. Millonaire, who is unwilling to die rich, might say to a State: I will give $2,000,000 to the betterment of your roads, provided you will give a like sum. And then the State can say to the counties: I will give so much if you will chip in like sum. And so the good work might go on until the multi-millionaire would become a multi-benefactor.

THE NEW CONSTITUTION.

Virginia's new organic law will go into effect at noon of the 10th day of July, and instead of "draping the capital in mourning" as one Mr. Blair, of Wythe, suggested, we would deck it in fairest flowers, and have all the bells of the state ring out their gladest notes that the work of alians has been superseded by that of Virginia's noblest and best men. Virginia put on mourning when Jackson fell, and the son who would have suggested rejoicing in that sad home, would have been sadly out of his memory with the heart-best of the old mother. And so now the son of Virginia, who is sad that the work of an Underwood has been undone is sadly out of tune with the glad outthrows of praise which go up from the true hearts of Virginia that deliverence has come. One sad Virginian in the midst of a host of reloiding ones.

It is said of Mr. Jefferson, that he rode to Washington from Monticello, on the family mare, tied her to the rack and with his saddle bags on his to take the eath of office as president.
